Interim Placement - A Case Study

A client of SX3 client had a vacancy after a departmental head had resigned. A new, permanent replacement had been found, but there was a long notice period before the arrival could start. The timing was not great, the department was under pressure to meet important end of year targets.

In this case the client decided they needed a temporary head of department. Within 2 weeks of the request, SX3 was able to supply one of their Associates who had over 20 years' experience of the client's types of claims.

With such experience, the Associate was able to hit the ground running and drive the department to achieve its targets. Furthermore, the interim placement was extended to assist with the induction of the permanent head thereby ensuring a seamless handover.

SX3 Case Studies – are published to help prospective clients understand how value opportunities for the use of our services may be found and to give an insight as to how SX3 works with clients. All projects are unique and have more detail than can be expressed here.
